So, take your time and ensure that your content is of top-notch quality before reaching out to any of these websites/blogs.

Also, it's worth noting that by the time you reading this post, some websites may have changed the rules and guidelines for guest blogging, have completely closed external submissions, decreased or increased in Domain Authority and/or Alexa Rank. That being said, we'll try our best to keep this list updated and provide you with the most accurate, comprehensive and reliable source.

This guide will be updated with new websites, metrics and links once every 3 months for the next 2 years. We will automatically send an updated version to the email you've used to purchase this guide. The next update will be sent out on December 2017.

How to be the perfect guest blogger?

By the time you read this part, you've probably realised that guest posting/contributing isn't an easy way to gain backlinks. You should be prepared to work your socks off to get published in an authoritative publication.

But, how do you go about creating that “perfect” guest post?

TERMS

As you will notice below, we use some fancy terms and phrases like DA (Domain Authority) & Alexa Rank, which may seem senseless to some of you.

If you ever get overwhelmed by the terms we've used in this guide, specifically in the tables below, refer to this part.

Website: No need to explain that. That's just the name of the website with a direct link to the homepage.

DA (Domain Authority): A metric introduced by Moz that calculates the strength of the website on a scale from 1-100 (100 being the strongest). The metric is calculated upon the number and quality of inbound links, linking domains, MozRank and MozTrust. This metric is updated once a month. So, if you purchased this guide in June, metrics are likely to be slightly different. As we've mentioned above, you will receive an updated version of this guide on December 2017 (Updated every 3 months for the next 2 years).

Alexa Rank: The algorithm that is based on the amount of estimated traffic that a particular website gets. The lower the rank is, the more traffic a website gets (i.e. 1 being the most popular website). This metric is updated every single day, so it's very likely that the data you're seeing now may differ from the data you'll see tomorrow. However, as ranks don't change dramatically, the data is likely to stay in a similar region. Once again, you will receive an updated version of this guide on December 2017 (Updated every 3 months for the next 2 years).

Difficulty: This "algorithm" is based on our own experience and determines how hard it is to get published on a particular website. It's based on the number of guest posts that we see featured on that website, the level of difficulty to get your article featured on that site, quality standards and the actual review process. Please use this metric as an indication only, as difficulty varies on a case-by-case basis.
